

TCFA/KCFA 2022 Convention – Speaker Bios

Austin Clancy is the Vice President/Director of Government Relations for OneMain Financial for the Southeastern US. Prior to joining OneMain, he served as compliance counsel for Republic Finance and in-house counsel for the Louisiana Office of Financial Institutions with a focus on regulation of non-depository institutions. He currently serves on the boards of a variety of state and federal trade associations including the Tennessee Consumer Finance Association, Kentucky Financial Services Association, and is a member of the American Financial Services Association's law committee and state government affairs committee.

Matthew Coogan is the Assistant Vice President of Human Resources for Mariner Finance, LLC, with a focus on Employee Relations. He earned his Bachelor's degree from Towson University in Baltimore, MD and holds a PHR certification. He leads the company's HR Generalist team and oversees workplace investigations, coaching/performance management, and employment law matters. Matthew has worked for Mariner Finance for over 11 years and helps its leadership navigate the unique challenges presented in the Consumer Finance employment landscape.

Jennifer Inman is the Executive Director of the Kentucky Financial Empowerment Commission. She leads the The Kentucky Financial Empowerment Commission (KFEC) and its efforts to improve the financial literacy and financial education of all Kentuckians.

Jennifer has a diverse professional background. Before joining KFEC, she was a financial literacy educator at Boone County High School and Northern Kentucky University. She has also worked extensively with the John Jay Center for Learning, a non-profit technical education center located in Portland, IN. She received her B.S. in Business Administration from Indiana Wesleyan University, an M.A. in Teaching Business & Marketing from University of the Cumberlands, and completed graduate studies in Economics and Finance at Northern Kentucky University.

Bill Parker serves as the Director of the Tennessee Financial Literacy Commission, a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization administratively attached to the Tennessee Department of Treasury. Under Bill's leadership, the Commission provides meaningful financial learning opportunities to Tennesseans of all ages. The Commission's core focus is in cultivating the next generation of Tennesseans by providing educators with the critical resources and training needed to incorporate financial literacy in the classroom. In addition to his role as director of the Tennessee Financial Literacy Commission, Bill serves on the Executive Committee with Tennessee Jump$tart Coalition and as a member of the Finance Industry Advisory Council with the Tennessee Department of Education.

